of all of the towns between Cranston and North Kingston, Frank Weeden, the insane man who has three times escaped from the State Hospital in almost as many weeks, has been recaptured in the house of his uncle, Joseph E. Smith, at South Quiddnesset, in the town of North Kingstown. He was brought back to the State Hospital a trifle footsore, but in no other way any the worse for his escape.

Weeks escaped from the hospital between 6 and 7 o'clock Friday morning. He had been ill and was placed in a small room at the end of one of the corridors. While confined there he had talked of ending his own life. He attempted to put this threat into execution by plunging his head against a wall, but was restrained before any serious injury was inflicted.

While he was locked in the room and his guard had gone to another ward in the hospital he bored a hole through the plaster which covered the walls, and where the aperture was large enough to allow of his body passing through he forced his way into the corridor, the door of which being open left a passage in open air and

10.—Much excitement has been caused here by the invasion of Venezuelan territory by Captain Calder, in command of a small frontier force from British Guiana and the seizure of a quantity of balata (the gum of the bullet tree, used for insulating

Captain Calder's force went down the Barina River and crossed the boundary into Venezuelan territory, where Captain Calder, at the point of a revolver, demanded that the Venezuelan commissioner surrender to him 4,000 pounds of balata.

The commissioner was unable to reason and gave up the gum. He has, however, made a protest to President Castro and the British consul here against the seizure of the balata and the invasion of Venezuelan territory. Fears are entertained of retaliation at Morawhanna, the British frontier headquarters. There has been much trouble over the balmet trade for Special to the Boston American. DETROIT, Aug. 18.—After losing three out of four from the Browns, three of which were straight wins, the Pilgrims arrived here today for a four days' session with the Tigers. As they expect Chicago, whom they had temporarily out of the running for first place in the American League, the Pilgrims may do to the Detroit.

When the Pilgrims and the Tigers met last the Boston side of the fastest game that has been played since the season began. The Pilgrims won by one run, but their three defeats were one run, one, taking eleven innings to decide one of the contests.

Pilgrims Hard to Beat as Ever.

Fighting by the way the Pilgrims are playing now, they will be every bit as hard for the hosts to beat as they were on the former occasion. If the Pilgrims' team can get an even break they can think their victory is assured.

The Boston are making an available record this trip. They won two out of four games in Chicago and are now on a roll in St. Louis, making five victories in six games. They are now on a roll in St. Louis, making five victories in six games.

The available part of the showing of the Boston on this trip is that they have won without the services of the "Big Red" pitcher, who is now in the hospital. Their pitcher, "Big Red," is now in the hospital.

George Miller, who has always been easy for the Boston, may pitch for the Boston today, which may give the Pilgrims a good chance for the victory.

Boston Relied on Winter.

The Boston have had to rely almost entirely on George Winter, backed up by the new pitcher.

Hounding a Very Old Woman

What Pleasure Do They Find in It?
Interesting Psychological Study
Copyright, 1907, by American Journal-Examiner

The New York World continues its personal and vicious hounding of Mrs. Eddy, leader of the Christian Science religion.

The account which it publishes of recent events in Mrs. Eddy's home could reflect credit upon no newspaper and upon no M.A.N.

Mrs. Eddy, who is in her eighty-seventh year and not overstrong naturally, received and talked with the men who are to pass upon her mental condition.

The World states that she was unable to do more than stand and then sink into a chair, which is not true. The World insinuates that she was acting under the influence of powerful drugs, which is rather a cowardly charge unless the World is ready to prove it. The World criticizes as bitterly as though she had been a convicted criminal Mrs. Eddy's personal appearance—an appearance due to age, and which ought to be venerable in the eyes of any man.

It would be interesting to know just what satisfaction newspapers find in the persistent persecution of a very old woman.

The attacks upon Mrs. Eddy, as we have before said, are offensive in three ways—they attack a woman, they attack old age and they attack religion. Those three things should be respected.

We note with some surprise that the two newspapers in New York City which have chiefly distinguished themselves by attacking Mrs. Eddy and her religion are the World and the Times.

These newspapers are both owned by Jews, which, in our opinion, makes the attack all the more surprising.

Jews have suffered outrageously and bravely for centuries ON ACCOUNT OF THEIR RELIGIOUS BELIEF. A Jew should be the last man to encourage, much less to begin, attacks upon THE RELIGION OF ANOTHER.

Jewish owners of newspapers that attack Mrs. Eddy or her religion are rendering a poor service to the men of their own race who have not yet escaped to this country.

And we are able to say that such attacks by Jewish editors upon a religion do not represent at all the feeling of the people of Jewish blood in America. The Jews came to this country to escape from the very persecution, from the false accusations, that the World and the Times now make against Mrs. Eddy and her followers.

It is rather a puzzling problem. Is there an unconscious psychological tendency to avenge on the old, helpless and feeble the wrong done in the name of religion in the Jewish persecution of centuries past?

If that were so, it would be a curious and rather alarming atavistic revelation.

Why, Yes, of Course Mr. Roosevelt Is Cromwell

That Is Proved in a Dozen Ways
All Convincing
Copyright, 1907, by American Journal-Examiner

Human beings have always shown originality and industry in flattering the great.

Way back in the darkness of history they persuaded the Emperor of China that he was the Son of Heaven. Every African King with part of a stovepipe hat on his head and a pair of cuffs on his ankles is made to believe himself the greatest ruler on earth.

Here in this country, fortunately, we do not flatter or exaggerate. We simply tell the truth.

And along that line a certain energetic business man has issued placards showing a picture of Roosevelt and of Cromwell, and stating that Roosevelt is simply a re-embodiment of the spirit of the great Oliver Cromwell.

Some Americans, all accurate and self-restrained, "excellent" metaphysicians, gen SANS PREJUGES, et point du tout pedants, "as Colonel Annet would say, take delight in discovering small and unimportant things about Mr. Roosevelt. They have observed the fact that he is a greater soldier than Napoleon, a nobler American statesman than Lincoln or Jefferson, a better judge of offhand of constitutional questions than was Marshall after his lifetime of study, and a hunter more fearless and capable than Boone and Crockett bled down into one.

But all that is so well known as to be unimportant. The fact that Mr. Roosevelt has in himself the entire spirit of Cromwell had NOT been discovered, and the world will greet the discovery of this truth with pleasure. It is all the more agreeable, as it is so easily proved.

For instance, have you read the report of the battle of Shashy that Cromwell sent back to Parliament? It was a great battle; it affected the entire world down to our own day. It was marvellously fought, proved Cromwell a great soldier, and this is the exact account that Cromwell sent of it to the Speaker of the House of Commons:

"Honest men served you faithfully in this action. Sir, they were true; I beseech you, in the name of God, not to discourage them. I wish their actions may beget thankfulness and HUMILITY in all that are concerned in it. We that venture his life for the liberty of his country, I wish he trust God for the liberty of his conscience, and you for the liberty he fights for."

Isn't that exactly the Roosevelt style? Doesn't it remind you of any one of his half-dozen histories of the battle of Kettle Hill? Isn't it, to come to modern times, exactly like one of HIS messages after the dangerous visit to the steam shovel at Panama?

You may say that Mr. Roosevelt's articles are a little longer than those of Mr. Cromwell. But cannot you see the resemblance in style, in modest self-flattery? Surely you can.

It is only just to Cromwell to give him his share of credit for part of the work that Mr. Roosevelt is doing. However, it would not do to forget the others. We must remember also that Mr. Roosevelt has "the eloquence of Cicero, the smoothness of Pliny, the wisdom of Agrippa." We mention these things, not that Mr. Roosevelt cares anything about them, but out of ordinary fairness to Cicero, Pliny and Agrippa, who would hate to be left out.

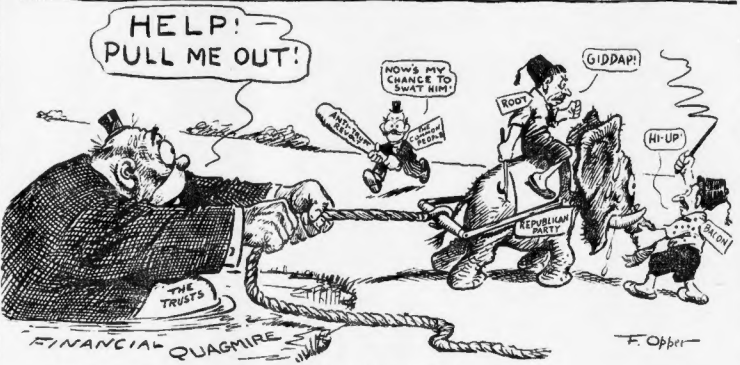

The fact is that this country, its natural-born toadies, its magazine editors and its well-lunched "special writers" have not done half justice to Mr. Roosevelt. We need a new word genius and a modern "Alaska" to give the world a real picture of the greatest man of the past or present as he really is.

Cromwell refused to make himself King—though he could have been if he had chosen—still, he remained in power, controlling things absolutely as long as he lived. He even extended his power after him in the person of his son.

We accept the statement that Roosevelt thus far duplicates exactly the Cromwell career. It will be interesting to see whether he is to continue that career as the "protector" of the country for the rest of his days. Just at present we are inclined to think that some of the gentlemen who most strongly favor an American monarchy, with Roosevelt at the head and Wall Street for the brain, have changed around a little.

WOULDN'T IT MAKE AN ELEPHANT MAD—

1—After he had been leading a life of pampered luxury for years—

2—If he was suddenly forced to work like this? Wouldn't it make him GROAN?

She Makes an Appeal to All Who Have Homes to Help the Starving, Deserted Dogs and Cats
By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1907, by American Journal-Examiner

MANY people who believe themselves kind-hearted and full of sympathy for suffering creatures have left town without providing for their cats and dogs.

The city is full of deserted and starving animals. If you are staying in town, put a dish of fresh water out in your yard, or beside your pavement, every night and morning.

It will require little effort to do this humane act, and it will mean much to the homeless, hungry cats and dogs.

A friend writes me from the city that she purchased a 3-cent package of catnip at the drug store, and scattered it in her yard, and watched two tramp cats while they almost went into a delirium of joy over it.

These cats came into her yard and drank a large dish of water dry every day.

My friend has begged me to speak a word for the dumb creatures abandoned to the fate of tramps in the cities, and without kindness or regard.

WANTS JUDGES SELECTED BY THE PEOPLE
William R. Hearst, Editor Bostonian

I wish to congratulate you on your editorial in yesterday's BOSTON AMERICAN in favor of electing judges by the people. I approve of it, especially as it applies to Massachusetts.

It is a good thing that the English judges which were supposed to be abandoned in Massachusetts we select every year a governor, senators, representatives, and other State officials.

The abuses of the District Attorney in choosing the City Hall require into the hands of the people, and the people are the only ones who can elect the judges.
